CHUCK EDWARDS

— for NC SENATE —

CONSERVATIVE. JOB CREATOR.

Chuck Edwards believes in hard work and understands the value of a dollar. At age 16, he started a job at the McDonald's on Spartanburg Highway in Hendersonville — flipping burgers, earning a paycheck to help his family make ends meet.

Forty years later — after working his way up, finishing at West Henderson High and Blue Ridge Community College, and mentoring other small business owners, helping them open restaurants and create jobs — Chuck and his wife Teresa now own seven McDonald's franchises in Western North Carolina, providing jobs for 390 people.

Chuck is not a politician. He's a family man, a businessman, and a conservative. He has the knowledge, the experience, and the leadership to bring jobs to Western North Carolina.

CHUCK EDWARDS

for NC SENATE

Chuck is a conservative small businessman and he has created hundreds of jobs in Western North Carolina. He will fight to bring more jobs to Henderson, Buncombe and Transylvania counties.

HUMBLE BEGINNINGS AND CONSERVATIVE MOUNTAIN VALUES

Growing up in Western North Carolina, Chuck Edwards learned how to work hard and get the job done. He went to work at 16, flipping burgers and cleaning bathrooms at a local McDonald's to help his family make ends meet.

Chuck graduated from West Henderson High School, and kept paying his dues while working his way up at McDonald's. It paid off. Today, Chuck and his wife, Teresa, own seven restaurants and have created hundreds of local jobs.

Chuck Edwards has never run for office, and never thought he would. But he knows the conservative values and real-world experience that helped him grow a business can help deliver jobs and opportunities for Western North Carolina.
